b. Acting on instructions to intensify his cultivation of Identities 1 and 2, Subject has developed his relationship with these individuals from that of a casual social acquaintance to a more friendly level. Identities apparently enjoy Subject's company and have displayed in their conversations with him an increasing trust. This has been evidenced recently by their willingness to discuss with Subject not only abstract political themes but also matters transpiring in Identity 1's employer firm, the actual target of our exercise. This is, we note, despite an otherwise keen security sense on the part of Identities. We are still searching for some significant susceptibility on the part of Identity 1 which would indicate possible recruitability. In the meanwhile and until this is determined we feel the cultivation exercise is worth while in that Identity 1 has shown a talkative nature vis-a-vis Subject and appears to possess promise as a valuable elicitation source. c. Unfortunately, the certainty with which we viewed Subject's entry into the leadership of Identity 3 did not prove warranted. The position noted in Paragraph C2 of EGGA-4733 for which he was being considered went to another individual. Subject's activity within the organization will continue at about the same level as previously. 4. Security: There have been no untoward security developments during the reporting period. 5. Administrative: Subject will be on vacation and out of the Hamburg area during the period 10 July to 5 August 1970. 6. Financial: Subject is paid a salary of DMW 800 per month, in addition to which he is reimbursed for directed operational expenses. 7. Comments: a. We are most satisfied with the performance of this energetic and resourceful agent. His development of Identities 1 and 2 has been commendable and shows encouraging promise. We would also cite his excellent performance in reporting and analyzing the Fifth Stockholm Vietnam Conference. b. With the likelihood of a Soviet Consulate-General coming to Hamburg in the near future, we have been exploring Subject's contacts and access with the objective of preparing him for an access agent role against this most interesting future target. The potential offered by his relationship to Identities 1 and 2 is clear. Augmenting this and in an attempt to make Subject more attractive to potential Soviet target individuals, he was recently instructed to explore the possibility of securing employment with a local governmental agency. If such proves feasible it would also improve Subject's cover situation, although we might add that his current cover has stood him in good stead to date. c. In addition to his Soviet-oriented activities, which are his primary assignment, Subject also performs ad hoc
